...Texas NRC deadlines

Applying for assistance

Interested producers should submit applications to their local NRCS office by Nov. 8, 2023, to be considered for the 2024 ranking funding period.

Visit the Texas NRCS Website for more details about EQIP or other technical and financial assistance available through NRCS conservation programs or local USDA contact your Service Center.

Historically underserved producer benefits

Special provisions are also available for historically underserved producers.

EQIP, historically underserved producers eligible for advance payments to help offset costs related to materials purchasing contracting services up front.

addition, historically underserved producers receive higher EQIP payment rates (up to 90% of average cost). NRCS sets aside EQIP, CSP and ACEP funds for historically underserved producers.

Conservation practices and climate

NRCS conservation programs play a critical role in USDA's commitment to partnering with ranchers, farmers, landowners and local communities to deliver climate solutions that strengthen agricultural operations and rural America. States may prioritize a variety of voluntary conservation practices through NRCS these programs, including those that support climate-smart agriculture and forestry (CSAF).

Additional information available on the Texas NRCS website at www.tx.nrcs.usda.gov or by contacting your local USDA Service Center.

On This Day in Texas History October 13, 1845

On this day in 1845, the voters of the Republic of Texas approved an ordinance to accept annexation by a vote of 4,245 to 257. They also adopted the proposed state constitution by a vote of 4,174 to 312. The annexation of Texas to the United States had been a topic of political and diplomatic discussions since the Louisiana Purchase in 1803. Although most Texans had been in favor of annexation and had voted for it as early as 1836, constitutional scruples, fear of war with Mexico, and the controversy of adding another slave state to the union prevented the acceptance of annexation by the United States until 1845.

> Deadline Monday at 5 pm for that week's newspaper.
