

...Conservation Field Day

Mr. Hopkins had various firearms to show kids the different working parts and the names of the different components. Each student left with a handout and the Texas Outdoor Annual.

After lunch the students settled down to a visit with Bryan Swecker, local bee keeper and member of the Concho Valley Beekeepers. Mr. Swecker brought his suit and various tools that he uses while tending to bees. The highlight was his beehive! This hive was full of bee facts instead of real bees. Students were able to learn about life inside the hive, such as the queen only leaves the hive once or twice in her life and that is to mate in order to populate the colony. The group also found out that bee removal often results in the death of the hive, so prevention of bees settling in an unwanted place is key.

All of the students, teachers, and volunteers seemed to have really enjoyed their day of outdoor learning. As a result of all the happy faces, Coke County SWCD is looking forward to hosting next year's event.
