“If you have a household income of 150 percent of the federal poverty rate, you could qualify for this program,” according to Dr. Mark Bethune, executive director of the agency. “We encourage anyone in the 11 counties where we administer this program to contact us to determine if they are eligible.”

The program provides assistance to people who live in the following counties: Coke, Concho, Crockett, Irion, Kimble, Menard, Reagan, Schleicher, Sterling, Sutton, and Tom Green.

The program can make up to eight payments and up to $1,200 depending on circumstances. The easiest way to find out if you qualify for this assistance program is to call the agency at (325) 653-2411 for more information, but information also is available on the agency’s website www.cvcaa.org or you can come to the agency’s offices at 36 E. Twohig Ave. Ste. B2 (basement of the Cactus Hotel), San Angelo, TX 76903.

“The official name of the effort is the Comprehensive Energy Assistance Program,” according to Bethune. “But we call it ‘utility assistance’ in the office, because that is what the program addresses.

Payments are based on your billing history, but if you are interested in getting assistance, the best thing to do is contact us and find out if you qualify and what support we can provide.”

The CVCAA provides a variety of services in partnership with community resources to improve lives and empower people in the Concho Valley. In addition to the utility assistance, the agency provides weatherization assistance, case management, and tax assistance.

You do not have to own your residence to qualify.
