Coke County Library

The Coke County Library will have on display the '64 Study Club's king-sized quilt to be awarded to a lucky winner on Friday, Open House Day, December 2, 2012.

The king-sized quilt was made by three members of the '64 Study Club, Carolyn Long, Pat Carwile, and Nita Duncan. Hundreds of hours were required and personal duties set aside to complete this project. But, it is a labor of love, as the quilt's fund raiser will serve to provide scholarships to Robert Lee's high school seniors.

The quilt and its matching pillow shams will look good folded across the foot of a single bed, or draped across a queen-sized bed, and will do justice as a cover for a king-sized bed. The quilt might also be used as a wall hanging, although it would be hard not to enhance a bedroom setting with it.

Tickets for the drawing are $1.00 a piece. With each dollar purchase, high school seniors will be awarded scholarships to pursue their dreams. Those who purchase tickets are helping young people become contributing citizens for the future.

All are invited to stop by to see the quilt. The quilt is a one-of-a-kind piece. The design is original and the quilting is unique. A surprise awaits those looking at the underside of the quilt.
