Kindergarten Math Class Learns with Seniors! Mrs. Youngblood's senior Math Models students at Bronte High School, visit Mrs. Webb's kindergarten classroom every two weeks to do math lessons with the kindergarteners. Recently, some of the Senior students have been doing measurement lessons with the kindergarteners. The students measured various items in the classroom including books and shoes (Mrs. Poehls, elementary principal, even had her foot measured). Beau Rousseau, one of the senior students, said "It's fun to help the kindergarteners out and I remember that when I was a little kid, I used to look up to the older students, so I really enjoy being able to work with the little kids." Mrs. Webb, the Kindergarten teacher said, "The kindergartener students say that they always look forward to the high school students coming into the classroom to do lessons with them."
