... Texas History

(Continued from previous page) He returned to the United States in 1872, lived in Baltimore, and moved back to Texas shortly before his death. February 18, 1910

On this day in 1910, a Frenchman, Louis Paulhan, made the first recorded airplane flight in Texas. The first people in the state to fly, in the 1860s, were air-show balloonists and their passengers, although several inventors were also busy with plans for winged flying machines. The alleged flight of Jacob F. Brodbeck in 1865 has become a Texas legend. After the Wright brothers' controlled airplane flights in 1903, aeronautical progress generally was slow until 1909-10, when European aviation made rapid strides and the United States government acquired its first aircraft. demonstrations Aerial proliferated at sites across America, including Houston, where Paulhan made his flight. Military aviation developed at the same time. Lt. Benjamin Foulois, a colorful pioneer pilot, arrived at Fort Sam Houston in February 1910, assembled the army's recently purchased Wright biplane, and took to the air on March 2, 1910. More than a hundred years later, Texas continues to be a leader in civil and military aviation.

February 18, 1943

On this day in 1943, Dolly Shea graduated with the first flight-nurse class of the United States Army Air Forces at Bowman Field, Kentucky. The San Benito, Texas, native served in the European Theater during World War II. She was killed on April 14, 1945, when her evacuation plane, ferrying wounded Americans to hospitals behind the front line, was shot down over Germany. She was one of three women in the Army Nurse Corps known to have been killed by direct enemy action and the only one from Texas. Her awards include the Air Medal, the Red Cross Medal, a Special Citation President from Harry Truman, and a posthumous Purple Heart.

Stock Show Season! These Bronte ISD students recently competed at major livestock shows. Cole Knight (top right photo) placed third in class 1 of the San Antonio ewe show and Caden Sumrall (top left photo) placed sixth in the class 4 ewe show. Treyton McCullough (right photo) had the fourth place cross in the San Angelo gilt show and Zach McWright had the 10th place cross.

