PUBLIC PROFILES

As people move to Coke and an introduction to the County, it's sometimes difficult to determine where to go and who to talk to at the local government offices.

Each week, The Observer/ Enterprise will highlight one or more of these offices. These highlights will include the services performed at that office people who make that office

This week, we are highlighting a few of the offices of our county government. The table above shows the relationship between the voters and the officials.

County Constable Marty Boyd Elected 2010

Constables are certified peace officers and, along with their have all enforcement powers of any other peace officers and often participate actively in criminal investigations. In communities, constables focus on truancy cases. Not only does a constables perform traditional law enforcement functions, the constable also serves as bailiff for the justice courts, serves subpoenas and other process and plays an important role in making sure the judgments rendered in civil cases are satisfied. The constable also has duties related to keeping accounts of the financial transactions of the office and is responsible for property seized or money collected by court order.

As with all elected county officials, the constable has ultimate authority over the operations of the office, including the authority to hire and fire personnel and direct their daily activities. The constable also has authority to determine how to use all other resources allocated to the office during the budget process.

Texas Constitution • Article 5 Section 18

(h) The commissioners court of a county may declare the office of constable in a precinct dormant if at least seven consecutive years have passed since the end of the term of the person who was last elected or appointed to the office and during that period of time no person was elected to fill that office, or during that period a person was elected to that office. but the person failed to meet the qualifications of that office or failed to assume the duties of that office. If an office of constable is declared dormant, the office may not be filled by election or appointment and the previous officeholder does not continue to hold the office under Subsection (a) of this section or Section 17, Article XVI, of this constitution. The records of an office of constable declared dormant are transferred to the county clerk of the county. The commissioners court may reinstate an office of constable declared dormant by vote of the commissioners court or by calling an election in the precinct to reinstate the office. The commissioners court shall call an election to reinstate the office if the commissioners court receives a petition signed by at least 10 percent of the qualified voters of the precinct.

Constable Marty Boyd is the owner of B&B Enterprises in Bronte. He and his wife Missy have two daughters, Cheyenne Boyd Vasquez and Whitney Boyd, and one grandchild.

If an election is called under this subsection, the commissioners court shall order the ballot for the election to be printed to permit voting for or against the proposition: "Reinstating the office of Constable of Precinct __ that was previously declared dormant." The office of constable is reinstated if a majority of the voters of the precinct voting on the question at the election approve the reinstatement.
